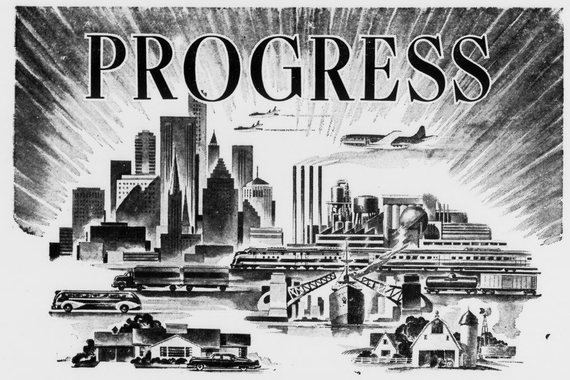
Appomattox will Thrive in '55



REMEMBERING THE PAST
LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

Progress is not achieved by foresight only, but also in remembrance of things past. From out of the historic past of Appomattox, let us resolve to make our town thrive in '55.

The triumphs of progress are won by teamwork. Let us all play on the Appomattox team in the year that lies ahead.

No. 37 of a Series

One of the great characteristics of the American people is the continuing desire that "tomorrow will be better." To rest on the oars is to drift. Ever and always our most dynamic people are working and planning to make tomorrow a better day . . . and next year a better year.

When we say "Appomattox will thrive in '55" we do not mean to imply that we did not thrive in '54. Thanks to the support and patronage of the wonderful people of this trade area, Appomattox had a good year in '54. Our economy was solidified by many improvements and strengthened by facing and solving community problems. We cannot allow the old year to pass into the record books without taking this means of thanking you for your contributions to the success of the year now ending. There are countless problems to be confronted by business, but they are faced with greater assurance of success when the businessmen can count upon the loyal friendship of his customers and the support of his trade area. And we who bring these messages to our community, want to express our gratitude for your friendship as we now wrap up the record of a passing year.

We feel that 1954 was good to Appomattox. A great forward step was made in our school facilities. Our civic organizations had their most active year. Our churches made sound progress and enriched the spiritual life of the community. Our banks made steady progress and are justly proud of their record of service. And our business places were alert to serve the needs of farmers and our adjacent rural areas. More and more people get into the habit of coming to Appomattox for services. Our building industry had an excellent year and is now in a strong position to continue in '55. More telephone lines were built . . . our timber dealers sought out markets for the products of our forests. And our automotive dealers and stations found it possible to meet the steady demands for new and used cars and for automotive services. Our town continued as a center for the distribution of gas and oil. And so the story went for '54.

Our goal now is to plan "to thrive in '55."

And for that we need your help. Feel free to tell us what you think will improve our community and enable us one and all to find that economic security and agricultural stability, that community pride and civic spirit which will continue to make "Appomattox a growing town." We desire to measure our growth not only in dollars and material things, but in a general advancement of the standard of living and cultural attainemnts which truly are the foundation of making tomorrow a better day. "Make Appomattox thrive in '55". . . and visit the following whenever they can be of service to you.
